Old-Time Foods Make Modern Pie

Favorite family recipes, handed down generation after generation, invariably include one for a cream pie. What's more, the ingredients they call for are as well known today as they were in Grandmother's time—chocolate, cream cheese and sweetened condensed milk. Here these old-time favorite foods are combined to make a modern dessert—"Chocolat Creme Pie."

Chocolat Creme Pie
(Makes one 9-inch pie)

1 (9-inch) pastry shell, baked
1 (-oz.) squares unsweetened chocolate
1 (15-oz.) can Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk
½ teaspoon salt
1 envelope unflavored gelatine
½ cup cold water
1 (6-oz.) bar Plain Cream Cheese
1 cup hot water

Melt chocolate, sweetened condensed milk, and salt into top of double boiler; beat over hot water, about 10 minutes, stirring occasionally until chocolate has melted and mixture has thickened. Soften gelatine in cold water. Cream the cheese, (with electric mixer or rotary beater) until light and fluffy. Blend into the chocolate mixture. Dissolve gelatine in hot water; chill until the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Fold into chocolate mixture. Pour into baked pastry shell. Chill until firm, about 2½ to 3 hours. If desired, decorate top with additional whipped cream cheese, shaved chocolate, dates and walnuts—or, use just plain whipped cream.

WHAT A MAYOR EXPECTS OF PUBLIC SCHOOLS

For the last three weeks a series of articles have been published in The Times-Virginian concerning our expectations of Public Education. Mr. Daneel le Roux has asked me to write one this week concerning, "What a Mayor Expects of Public Education."

In my opinion the prime requisite of public schools today is to insure the fact that our most cherished possessions, our children, receive a well-rounded education. The next question is, "What Is A Well-Rounded Education?"

A Well-Rounded Education is one that has qualified a graduate to make a fair and honest living in a field with which he or she has been familiarized plus the knowledge of how to get along with our fellowmen and take the hard knocks of life.

After defining a "Well - rounded Education," next what is necessary to insure this? It is my understanding that most public schools consist of twelve grades, seven grades comprising the Elementary School and five grades comprising the High School. The first grade is a most important one in a child's life. As a usual occurrance, this is the first time that a child has been away from his home, parents and family. During this year, I feel that the teacher should spend the majority of her time teaching the children to play and share with the other children. It is most important in my opinion, that all parents should have a very close tie with the teacher and be ready to help in any way that they can. After all, the parents have worked with this child for six years, and they should know his faults much better than the new teacher and should be able to help the teacher correct same.

During the next six years of Elementary School, the child should be taught the basic subjects, such as reading, writing, arithmetic, history, spelling, health, geography, art, and music. The very important fact of continuing to teach the student to live with their fellowman should be remembered at all times.

When the student has graduated from Elementary School and entered the eighth grade or High School, he or she should start taking the more advanced courses in math, science, history, English, Physical Education, athletics, and last but not least, public speaking. It is my sincere opinion that all high schools should give more time to public speaking. It is not necessary that every graduate should be a "Silver Tongue Orator," but I do believe that it would be a wonderful thing for every graduate to be able to stand up and express his opinion in a proficient manner in public. I also feel that every student should be encourged to take part in athletics for I feel that this is one of the best ways for anyone to learn good sportsmanship.

During recent years most of our high schools have incorporated in their curriculum a Diversified Education and Occupation Course which I think is wonderful. When taking this course, it gives the student an excellent opportunity to choose a field in which to make a livelihood and also to work in this field and learn the fundamentals.

In order to give our children a "Well-rounded Education," our teachers have a big responsibility, but we as parents also have a big responsibility and we should work wholeheartedly together in order to see that our children will receive the proper education and make better citizens for tomorrow.

Let me take this opportunity to salute and congratulate our teachers and school officials for the wonderful job they are doing and for the untiring efforts they are putting forth—to give our children a better education and to prepare them for citizenship.

Now, I have tried in a very feeble manner to enlighten the public on "What A Mayor Expects of Public Education." Before closing I would like to offer my services as Mayor and if there is anything I can contribute which may help, I stand ready to offer my services to the teachers, school officials and the public.

C. T. Moses, Jr.,
Mayor, Town of Appomattox

The noon ceremony was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Coleman B. Yeatts here, with the Revs. Arthur P. Cooley and Eldridge V. Culkin officiating in the presence of the immediate families of the couple only.

Arrangements of white gladioli and cathedral candles in candelabra formed the background for the ceremony.

A program of nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Augusta Anne Brafford, pianist. Her numbers included "Beacuse," "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me." Traditional wedding marches were played.

The bride, who entered with the groom, wore a dressmaker suit of pastel blue woolen, with which she used navy accessories and a corsage of white cymbidium, orchids.
